What I love about my city New Delhi is that it is a hub of art, wine, and culture, with its vibrant galleries, rich artistic heritage, theatre amazing wine restaurants, bars and clubs.

“I asked my soul, what is Delhi? She replied, the world is the body and Delhi is the soul.”

I have a deep passion for art, wine and culture and as a family we often try to self curate our outings at Delhi around these three interests. Here’s a post about one such event where we watched a play first and then went to an Italian restaurant in Delhi for wine and pasta. Hope you like reading it.
