

Home is where Heart is

Description

What does your ideal home look like?

Representational picture

I truly believe in the title phrase that “home is where heart is”. This phrase which means that home is not only the house we live in, with the proverbial four walls and a roof however, home is where you stay with your folks, your loved ones with whom you share the strongest affection and love.

My Ideal Home Coming specifically to today’s prompt, my ideal home firstly would be a reasonably spacious house with all modern day assets and amenities laid out in a minimalistic theme. More importantly though, it has to be one where our family lives with a strong emotional bond of love, respect and care for each other and a space where calmness and peace prevails. It would also have positive vibes, a place where you can rest and renew your energies.

Representational picture

A Corner for Wine Being a wine enthusiast, it is also not out of context to desire a small corner in the home dedicated to wine. By this I do not mean a bar with a stock wine bottles, but a compact work station with a table, books, a desktop computer etc, from where I can carry out my creative work related to wines.

Representational picture

Looking forward to your views and comments too. Cheers!